

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A semiconductor substrate has a bulk region and a semiconductor region formed either on a buried insulating film or on a cavity region. The bulk region contains a plurality of memory cells, sense amplifiers and column selection gates, while the semiconductor region contains word line selection circuits and column selection circuits.